

Papua New Guinea Fiber Optic Communication Cable Blowing

Overview

Google will build three subsea cables in Papua New Guinea, which the Pacific Island nation says is being funded by Australia under a mutual defence treaty. The cables will provide a key upgrade to PNG's digital backbone and are a part of the Pukpuk Treaty. What's next?

Australia is expected to also finance a new. State-owned PNG DataCo announced yesterday (October 8) that its network has suffered a failure in the Madang and Alotau submarine cable link due to the recent earthquake. Services are impacted between Popondetta and Alotau. It began as a handshake beneath the shadow of rising Pacific tensions - a promise of wires, not weapons, stretching beneath. A special vessel is prepared to carry out repairs on a broken submarine cable system that has disrupted networks in South and Central Papua. It ensures that the system is.
